

Feature	Normal Function	Callback Function
Syntax	<code>int func(int x) { ... }</code>	<code>int func(int x) { ... }</code> (Identical)
Who writes it?	You.	You.
Who calls it?	You call it directly.	A library/system calls it.
When does it run?	Immediately when you write <code>func(x)</code> .	When a specific event happens (e.g., "Row Found").
How is it passed?	Not passed; called by name.	Passed as a pointer (address) argument.